HANDSOME GIRL FOUND DYING, OPEN BIBLE LYING BY HER BED

Margaret Gracie Mayer, Formerly of This City, Committed Suicide
In Her Room at Washington.

PRETTY AND WELL EDUCATED, BUT WAYWARD

She Was Said to Have Been Addicted to the Morphine Habit and Ended Her Life by Taking That Drug—Her Bible Was Turned Down at a Marked Passage Which Reads “The Goodness of God
Calleth to Repentance.”

A telegram from Washington, D. C., gives particulars of the death in that city of Margaret Mayer, which was briefly reported in these columns yesterday. The name is Mayer, not Maher, and her father, although a property owner, was not very wealthy. The Washington dispatch says:

“Margaret Gracie Maher, aged 22, whose home is said to be in East Liverpool, where her father, who is now dead, was once a large stockholder in the leading pottery works, committed suicide yesterday at a disreputable house, 1307 C street, northwest, by taking morphine. Jennie Wright, a servant in the house, heard groans in the girl's room about 3:30 p.m. The door was forced and the girl was found in bed unconscious. The police were notified and she was hurried to the Emergency hospital, where she died. When Patrolman Catts was searching her room later on he found an open New Testament on a chair near the girl's bed. A leaf was turned down and a passage in Romans xi. was marked, the following line being heavily underscored: ‘The goodness of God calleth to repentance.’ On the flypage of the book was the following: ‘To dear Margaret Gracie from Margaret Duncan, 1899.’ This was written in ink.”

The police learned that the girl, who went under the name of Helen Vernon, was the daughter of a wealthy father who died several years ago in East Liverpool, O. It was said that her mother died many years ago, and that her father married again, but that in his will he provided amply for the support of the dead girl and a son. The dead girl had given evidence of being educated. She had in her room many works, the best authors and also a large number of magazines. She had a wealth of blonde hair and was considered handsome.

“Before coming here during inauguration week it is said the girl was in Indianapolis. The police have communicated with the Indianapolis authorities and also with her brother.” Miss Mayer was until a short time ago a resident of Pittsburgh, having lived at 235 Second avenue. Before leaving here she was said to be a user of morphine. Her father, Wm. J. Mayer, was a well known potter and worked in this city for many years. He has been dead for several years. Her stepmother still lives in this city, but has known nothing of Margaret for years. Even when young the girl was wayward and seven years ago she ran away. Friends found her in Cleveland and she was put in the Home of the Good Shepherd. She ran away and came to East Liverpool. She soon went to Pittsburgh, and after she left there all trace of her was lost until the news of her suicide came. She attended the high school and was a bright girl.

Her brother, John Mayer, formerly a printer in this city, is reported to be living in Cleveland.

NOT CHANGED

Is Condition at Goodwin's—Likely to Be Some Time Before It Is Settled.

The strike situation at the Goodwin pottery is unchanged, except that the warehouse women are more determined than ever to carry their point. They threaten to tie up every pottery in the city unless the firm comes to terms.

The refusal of the women to place the matter in the hands of the standing committee practically ends any negotiations the Brotherhood might have begun. President Hughes interested himself for a time, and in so doing became involved in a series of misunderstandings that has required a greater portion of toady in straightening out. It is likely the Brotherhood will allow the dispute to take its course and will take no further part therein unless asked to do so.

HIGHEST BID $3,600

No Sale at the Auction of the Old Walters Property.

The old Walters property on Third street, which was offered at public auction at 2 o'clock this afternoon, was not sold. The highest bid was $3,600.

J. W. Riley acting as trustee for the heirs, withdrew the property, stating that it would not be sold for the amount bid. There was considerable discussion as to whether it could be legally withdrawn when it was advertised to be sold at public auction.

HOSPITAL DAY PROSPECTS GOOD

Three Societies In the City Have Made Good Propositions to the Association.

TREASURER TO COLLECT MONEY

At the Citizens' National Bank—Three Wards in the New Institution Already Taken—A Very Enthusiastic Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon.

Tomorrow is Hospital donation day. It has been understood from the beginning that the proprietors of the various mercantile establishments would receive contributions from their clerks and other employees.

At the meeting yesterday a communication was received from the Girls' Friendly society of St. Stephen's church offering to take and maintain a ward in the new institution as soon as it was completed. The ward will contain six cots and all the necessary equipment. Like offers were received from a society composed of Jewish ladies and the King's Daughters, of the Methodist Protestant church. All the propositions were accepted with the thanks of the association.

Through the courtesy of those in charge of the Potters' National bank, the treasurer of the association will be permitted to receive reports from the collectors at that institution. She may be seen at the bank on Saturday evening from 6 to 10 o'clock, and on Monday the entire day.

The impression seems to have been circulated that the collectors were to receive 10 per cent for collecting the money tomorrow night. The ladies wish to deny this, as those engaged in the work are doing it through the interest they have in the cause.

The Hospital association held a meeting in the Grand Army hall yesterday afternoon, and arranged the following list of those authorized to receive contributions tomorrow, in the various establishments:

DECEPTIVE DROPS.

BUSHELS OF CANDY CONTAINING BRANDY SOLD HERE.

School Children Consume It And Supt. Rayman Proposes to Stop the Traffic.

It is more than probable that a certain out-of-town wholesale confectionery firm which has supplied a certain brand of sweetmeats to local dealers will get into serious trouble unless the sale of the stuff is discontinued.

Within the past few days several bushels of a certain candy which very much resembles a chocolate drop have been consumed by the school children of East Liverpool and the demand is constantly growing.

The drop is chocolate coated, but the coating is very thin, and on the inside is deposited a quantity of very good brandy.

They are known as the “whisky drop,” and have been bought in large quantities.

A News Review reporter purchased a few this morning, and, upon presenting them to Superintendent Rayman at his office, learned that the gentleman had already commenced an investigation of the matter. He proposes to ask the local dealers to discontinue their sale, and if the request is disregarded legal steps will be taken.

Samples were inspected by a number of first-class authorities, and all agree that the drops contain whisky or brandy.

Upon inquiry at the office of a prominent attorney he stated that, while there was no law which had a direct bearing upon the subject, there was no doubt in his mind that the manufacturers could be proceeded against under the government license regulations. If the stuff contained whisky the people who made it were certainly selling it, and not only this but selling it without a license.

JURY DISAGREED

No Verdict in the Case of A. T. Dennis, Insurance Agent—Court Notes.

Lisbon, March 29.—(Special)—In the case of Ohio versus A. T. Dennis, the Canton insurance agent, at 10 o'clock last evening the jury disagreed. After eight hours the jury stood seven for acquittal and five for conviction.

A suit filed in North Georgetown by Augustus Knam against O. R. Burson to recover $57 on a note was appealed to common pleas court today. The lower court gave the plaintiff judgment for $97.46.

The case of William Bradbury against William Steese was settled in court after a jury had been sworn. The action was brought by Bradbury to get possession of the Commercial hotel furniture in Lisbon. Bradbury paid all costs and allowed Steese $150. Bradbury got the furniture.

B. S. AMBLER TOLD HIS STORY

Sharply Cross-Examined By Attorney Speaker—Much Talk of a $1,000 Fee Which the Salem Solicitor Is Alleged to Have Expected to Get.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Lisbon, March 29.—(Special)—Charged with malfeasance and misfeasance in public office, Lewis P. Metzger, city solicitor of Salem, was given a hearing before Probate Judge Boone in the common pleas court room yesterday. The case was originally set for 9 o'clock, but owing to a press of business, Judge Boone did not reach it until 2 p.m.

The complaint was first read. It was sworn to by Attorney S. W. Ramsey, of Salem, and approved by seven members of the council of that city. The document was filed in probate court March 13. Its substance has already been published in these columns. It charges Metzger with receiving money from the city to which he was not entitled. During the year he has been in office it charges that he has worked against the city's interest in the settlement of the Salem railroad case, which has just been disposed of.

Attorney S. W. Ramsey and Prosecuting Attorney J. H. Brookes represented the plaintiff and C. S. Speaker and Congressman R. W. Taylor, of this city, the defendant.

Mr. Ramsey briefly reviewed the case for Salem and was followed by Congressman Taylor for Metzger, who eulogized his client, told of the valuable services rendered the city by the solicitor. He held that Metzger was entitled to the highest praise for the protection of Salem's interests.

Mr. Ramsey read a bill of admissions which included traveling expenses of Metzger in trips to New York, Cleveland and Lisbon. The hearing then proceeded. Eleven witnesses were sworn.

A. W. Taylor, ex-solicitor of Salem, was the first witness and was examined briefly as to the duties of the solicitor.

James E. McNeelan, a Salem councilman, was called. Attorney Speaker asked for a separation of witnesses. The matter was argued and the request granted. McNeelan is a member of the claims committee. His testimony related mainly to talks with Metzger about his expenses on trips to New York and Cleveland. McNeelan referred to the report that Metzger was to have $1,000 for settling the railroad case. Metzger admitted that such a thing had been talked of, but insisted that it was proper to take the money if it did not come from the city. He also admitted to McNeelan that he had received a small fee from Pittsburgh parties, but did not say how much nor for what. McNeelan said Metzger gave the impression that B. S. Ambler paid his expenses to New York, but that he (Metzger) intended to pay this back when he learned what the expenses came to.

James M. Sears, also a councilman, testified that the $19.35 bill was sent back to Metzger to be itemized before it was paid. Metzger told him he had charged no more than he had a right to; also that he had received a small fee from a Pittsburgh gentleman for information furnished about Salem railroad affairs.

Charles E. Sweeney, president of Salem council, stated that he met Metzger March 7 at an informal meeting of Salem council, which had been called to investigate some of the solicitor's acts. Witness called his attention to a city ordinance fixing the solicitor's compensation. Metzger said he had not read it before, and then read it aloud. Metzger was then questioned about the $1,000 and said he did not know why the New York at-

The strike situation at the Goodwin pottery is unchanged, except that the warehouse women are more determined than ever to carry their point. They threaten to tie up every pottery in the city unless the firm comes to terms.

The refusal of the women to place the matter in the hands of the standing committee practically ends any negotiations the Brotherhood might have begun. President Hughes interested himself for a time, and in so doing became involved in a series of misunderstandings that has required a greater portion of toady in straightening out. It is likely the Brotherhood will allow the dispute to take its course and will take no further part therein unless asked to do so.

HIGHEST BID $3,600

No Sale at the Auction of the Old Walters Prop-erty.

The old Walters property on Third street, which was offered at public auction at 2 o'clock this afternoon, was not sold. The highest bid was $3,600.

J. W. Riley acting as trustee for the heirs, withdrew the property, stating that it would not be sold for the amount bid. There was considerable discussion as to whether it could be legally withdrawn when it was advertised to be sold at public auction.

HOSPITAL DAY PROSPECTS GOOD

Three Societies In the City Have Made Good Propositions to the Association.

TREASURER TO COLLECT MONEY

At the Citizens' National Bank—Three Wards in the New Institution Already Taken—A Very Enthusiastic Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon.

Tomorrow is Hospital donation day. It has been understood from the beginning that the proprietors of the various mercantile establishments would receive contributions from their clerks and other employees.

At the meeting yesterday a communication was received from the Girls' Friendly society of St. Stephen's church offering to take and maintain a ward in the new institution as soon as it was completed. The ward will contain six cots and all the necessary equipment. Like offers were received from a society composed of Jewish ladies and the King's Daughters, of the Methodist Protestant church. All the propositions were accepted with the thanks of the association.

Through the courtesy of those in charge of the Potters' National bank, the treasurer of the association will be permitted to receive reports from the collectors at that institution. She may be seen at the bank on Saturday evening from 6 to 10 o'clock, and on Monday the entire day.

The impression seems to have been circulated that the collectors were to receive 10 per cent for collecting the money tomorrow night. The ladies wish to deny this, as those engaged in the work are doing it through the interest they have in the cause.

The Hospital association held a meeting in the Grand Army hall yesterday afternoon, and arranged the following list of those authorized to receive contributions tomorrow, in the various establishments:

DECEPTIVE DROPS.

BUSHELS OF CANDY CONTAINING BRANDY SOLD HERE.

School Children Consume It And Supt. Rayman Proposes to Stop the Traffic.

It is more than probable that a certain out-of-town wholesale confectionery firm which has supplied a certain brand of sweetmeats to local dealers will get into serious trouble unless the sale of the stuff is discontinued.

Within the past few days several bushels of a certain candy which very much resembles a chocolate drop have been consumed by the school children of East Liverpool and the demand is constantly growing.

The drop is chocolate coated, but the coating is very thin, and on the inside is deposited a quantity of very good brandy.

They are known as the "whisky drop," and have been bought in large quantities.

A News Review reporter purchased a few this morning, and, upon presenting them to Superintendent Rayman at his office, learned that the gentleman had already commenced an investigation of the matter. He proposes to ask the local dealers to discontinue their sale, and if the request is disregarded legal steps will be taken.

Samples were inspected by a number of first-class authorities, and all agree that the drops contain whisky or brandy.

Upon inquiry at the office of a prominent attorney it was stated that, while there was no law which had a direct bearing upon the subject, there was no doubt in his mind that the manufacturers could proceed against under the government license regulations. If the stuff contained whisky the people who made it were certainly selling it, and not only this but selling it without a license.

JURY DISAGREED

Lisbon, March 29.—(Special)—In the case of Ohio versus A. T. Dennis, the Canton insurance agent, at 10 o'clock last evening the jury disagreed. After eight hours the jury stood seven for acquittal and five for conviction.

The case of William Bradbury against William Steese was settled in court after a jury had been sworn. The action was brought by Bradbury to get possession of the Commercial hotel furniture in Lisbon. Bradbury paid all costs and allowed Steese $150. Bradbury got the furniture.

TESTIMONY FOR THE PROSECUTION

The Hearing In the Metzger Case Lead to a Spicy Tilt of Lawyers.

B. S. AMBLER TOLD HIS STORY

Sharply Cross-Examined By Attorney Speaker—Much Talk of a $1,000 Fee Which the Salem Solicitor Is Alleged to Have Expected to Get.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Lisbon, March 29.—(Special)—Charged with malfeasance and misfeasance in public office, Lewis P. Metzger, city solicitor of Salem, was given a hearing before Probate Judge Boone in the common pleas court room yesterday. The case was originally set for 9 o'clock, but owing to a press of business, Judge Boone did not reach it until 2 p. m.

The complaint was first read. It was sworn to by Attorney S. W. Ramsey, of Salem, and approved by seven members of the council of that city. The document was filed in probate court March 13. Its substance has already been published in these columns. It charges Metzger with receiving money from the city to which he was not entitled. During the year he has been in office it charges that he has worked against the city's interest in the settlement of the Salem railroad case, which has just been disposed of.

Attorney S. W. Ramsey and Prosecuting Attorney J. H. Brookes represented the plaintiff and C. S. Speaker and Congressman R. W. Tayler, of this city, the defendant.

Mr. Ramsey briefly reviewed the case for Salem and was followed by Congressman Tayler for Metzger, who eulogized his client, told of the valuable services rendered the city by the solicitor. He held that Metzger was entitled to the highest praise for the protection of Salem's interests.

Mr. Ramsey read a bill of admissions which included traveling expenses of Metzger in trips to New York, Cleveland and Lisbon. The hearing then proceeded. Eleven witnesses were sworn.

A. W. Taylor, ex-solicitor of Salem, was the first witness and was examined briefly as to the duties of the solicitor.

James E. McNeelan, a Salem councilman, was called. Attorney Speaker asked for a separation of witnesses. The matter was argued and the request granted. McNeelan is a member of the claims committee. His testimony related mainly to talks with Metzger about his expenses on trips to New York and Cleveland. McNeelan referred to the report that Metzger was to have $1,000 for settling the railroad case. Metzger admitted that such a thing had been talked of, but insisted that it was proper to take the money if it did not come from the city. He also admitted to McNeelan that he had received a small fee from Pittsburgh parties, but did not say how much nor for what. McNeelan said Metzger gave the impression that B. S. Ambler paid his expenses to New York, but that he (Metzger) intended to pay this back when he learned what the expenses came to.

James M. Sears, also a councilman, testified that the $19.35 bill was sent back to Metzger to be itemized before it was paid. Metzger told him he had charged no more than he had a right to; also that he had received a small fee from a Pittsburgh gentleman for information furnished about Salem railroad affairs.

Charles E. Sweeney, president of Salem council, stated that he met Metzger March 7 at an informal meeting of Salem council, which had been called to investigate some of the solicitor's acts. Witness called his attention to a city ordinance fixing the solicitor's compensation. Metzger said he had not read it before, and then read it aloud. Metzger was then questioned about the $1,000 and said he did not know why the New York at

PREHISTORIC MOUND.

ONE IN THE EAST END WILL SOON BE LEVELED.

Many People Will Watch the Work Expecting to Find Valuable Relics.

At a meeting of the members of the Supplee Land company, which will be held soon, a part of the land purchased by this company will be laid off in lots. The part to be platted includes the peculiar elevation commonly known as "the Thompson mound," which has been the object of much speculation for many years. A large majority of the residents believe that this mound was built by that prehistoric race known as the mound builders whose peculiar monuments are numerous in the valleys of the Ohio and Mississippi. The mound at Groves' creek, just below Wheeling, and from which Moundsville was named, contained some peculiar and valuable relics. Among these were very large skeletons, coffins and peculiar hieroglyphic plates. This elevation was considerably larger than the Thompson mound.

Mr. Thompson has received many propositions in years past from people anxious to open this mound. He has always refused to permit the work to be done, believing the elevation to be a natural one. The mound stands almost in the middle of the bottom. It covers perhaps an acre of ground and is very symmetrical in shape.

As soon as the earth is platted the mound will be cut down to a level with the ground surrounding it. The work when begun will be watched with a great deal of interest by a large number of people.

COLUMBIANA MAN REVIVED AFTER APPARENTLY DYING.

Ceased to Breathe February 7, But Regained Consciousness and Lived Weeks.

Columbiana, March 29.—Aquilla Stroud, a well known and highly esteemed resident of Columbiana, died a few days ago after a long and painful illness of Bright's disease, which had confined him to the house for several months. Although it was fully realized that recovery was impossible, his death came with startling suddenness. As his wife was washing and otherwise preparing him for his breakfast, his head dropped and without a word or apparently a gasp, he was dead. He is survived by a widow and two children.

A peculiar circumstance was connected with the late illness of Mr. Stroud. On February 7 he apparently died; he ceased to breathe, his pulse became indistinguishable and there was every indication that life was extinct. The attending physician, Dr. Frisbie, had been a close student of all the literature pertaining to the alleged discovery that salt in certain solution would revive persons who had apparently ceased to live, and, realizing that an experiment could not possibly do any harm and might prove effective, he administered to the patient a hypodermic injection of the saline solution.

The effect was almost magical. The lungs and heart resumed their functions, the patient regained consciousness, and was soon able to converse with those about him. The improvement in his condition was well maintained for some time, but the remedy could not overcome the ravages of the malady that had seized upon him as its victim, and death finally resulted.

We have all the new swell styles in boys' and children's suits for spring. See our window display this week.

HOSPITAL DONATION DAY.

Tomorrow is hospital donation day. Everyone should do something for this fund. No citizen is expected to contribute or offer to contribute more than he can afford. But everyone is expected to do what he can without injustice to himself or his family. A little self-sacrifice for the noble cause will hurt no one. Deny yourself the pleasure a few dollars will purchase and place the money where it will benefit the sick and the suffering. You will not miss the cash, and your own and other people's children may live to bless your generosity. The city is rich and prosperous; men and women who are able to work can all earn good wages; no one need be idle here.

A neat sum for the upbuilding of the institution of which the city stands in such great need can be realized if every person in the city, whether his earning capacity be great or small, will devote at least one day's earnings to swelling the fund which is to be raised. The city has determined to have a hospital. Let every good citizen do his part toward its establishment, and the earlier the work can be completed the better for the public.

AGINALDO'S CAPTURE.

Aguinaldo, the elusive, has been captured by Funston, the strenuous. Nobody, except Edward Atkinson, John J. Lentz, William J. Bryan and others of his allies, is likely to receive the tidings otherwise than joyously. The Little Americans will be plunged into a period of mourning, and resolutions further commanding the conduct of the barbarous rebel who planned wholesale massacres of American soldiers, liberal sprinkling with boiling oil and other oriental pleasures, may now be expected from his late confederates on this side of the water.

Any other government than that of the United States would doubtless hang Aguinaldo. But patient Uncle Sam will spare his worthless life. The Filipino ex-president has been the worst possible foe to the people he professed to befriend. He is a villain with just enough education to be more dangerous than a savage who knows nothing of civilized mankind. His capture saves his deluded followers from a worse fate, and virtually terminates the war against this government. As we have said, there will be no mourning save in the camp of his allies, who are chiefly in the Democratic party. His praises have been loudly sounded by the Ohio Democracy, but now that he is hors du combat and no longer a campaign issue even that body will desert him. He has long been as good as dead, and his capture by the American forces puts a final quietus upon his insurrectionary proclamations and his ridiculous pretensions. The real friends of the Filipinos have abundant reason for rejoicing.

The question what to do with Aguinaldo is becoming serious. Why not turn him over to the care of his most fervent admirers in this country and exact a pledge to keep him out of mischief? That would give them an opportunity for the more intimate acquaintance which they seem to hanker after, and perhaps would be quite as much punishment for him as he deserves.

The spasm of bigotry and blind partisanship that swept over Kentucky less than a year ago has so far subsided that the supreme court has granted a new trial to Caleb Powers and James Howard.

East Liverpool may not have more broken sidewalks to the square mile than any other town in America, but there's not many cities outside the earthquake belt that can match her in that respect.

If Funston overlooked Aguinaldo's typewriter when he took the rest of his paraphernalia he should promptly go back after it, no matter if he has to swim twice as far as on any previous expedition.

The sultan of Morocco is to be given time to settle. If time were money with him he would have paid his debts to Uncle Sam in full with interest twice over before this.

Come back, Funston, and grand marches shall be played in your honor.

orneys thought he ought to have it unless they held that he had benefited the Salem railroad fund in a settlement effected of what is known as the Devine damage suit against the road.

Albert H. Kennedy, city treasurer, talked with Metzger about the delivery of some bonds in Cleveland about the time the solicitor incurred his $10,000 expense bill. Metzger told him that he was going to take a little trip for his health, to be gone a week.

Wm. H. Dunn, mine superintendent for the Salem Coal company, of which B. S. Ambler is president, next testified. He said he was in Ambler's office about February 1. Metzger and Miss Doyle, a stenographer, were also present. Ambler said: "Metzger, you are in a lot of trouble. You have charged the city with expenses to New York, which had already been paid." Metzger replied somewhat angrily: "Yes, you told my worst enemy about it. You told J. M. Sears." Ambler said Sears had asked him about it and he had told the truth. Metzger wanted to pay Ambler the amount of the expense to New York. Ambler said: "You owe me nothing for such a trip." This Metzger denied vigorously and insisted he owed Ambler some money in addition to money spent in his election, but said he would pay it back.

Ambler asked Metzger about the $1,000. Metzger said he would take it if offered. Ambler said: "You can't have it." Metzger replied that he had talked the matter over with Judge W. W. Hole, who thought it would be all right for him to take the money. Metzger again stated that he owed Ambler, but could not pay, as he had no money. Witness said Metzger told Ambler that he had received no fees from Pittsburg parties.

Next morning Dunn talked with Metzger alone, and the solicitor asked him what he thought of last night's conversation. Witness replied that he wished he had not been there, but that he thought Ambler had the best of it. Metzger said he would come out all right, and that Ambler must be worried about that $1,000. Metzger repeated that he would take the money if he could get it. Mr. Ambler came along and Dunn heard Metzger tell him that he need not fear the Pittsburg party. On cross-examination Dunn said he was employed by Ambler.

Councilman Charles A. Cavanaugh gave the same testimony, in substance, as that given by the preceding councilmen.

B. S. Ambler, attorney and receiver of the Salem railroad, was the last and most interesting witness of the day. He helped build the railroad and has been one of its officers ever since. He gave a detailed history of the road and of the case before the court. It was he who wanted Metzger to go to New York to satisfy himself that the attorneys there negotiating settlement, were conducting everything as they should. These lawyers had invited him and Metzger, and they went together, put up at the Fifth avenue, met the lawyers, dined at the Union League club and transacted some business. The attorneys settled their hotel bill. Metzger left before Ambler did, and later made a second trip to New York. Some papers were changed slightly as a result. Witness later saw Metzger in his office and the latter said Mr. Johnson, of Pittsburg and his associates were going to buy the Salem railroad and that they were all right. Ambler said he told Metzger that he ought to have told this, and the solicitor said he had tried to telephone Ambler, but could not reach him. Metzger told him, among other things, that he did not think there would be much money left after the New York attorneys for the road got $20,000. Sometime in February the witness and Metzger met in the office of Ambler, Mr. Dunn and Miss Doyle being present, and what occurred was substantially what Dunn told on the stand. The witness told of a journey from Columbus with Councilman Sears and of a conversation which led up to the present case.

Witness said Metzger told him he had not been paid and Ambler retorted that Metzger was to get $1,000 to consent to give away $15,000. Metzger said the attorneys had suggested it and that Judge Hole, who had been told the whole story, approved. Witness told him Judge Hole did not know all or he never would have consented. The witness had two hours' talk with Metzger and the next morning met him on the street, when

Metzger told him the Pittsburg parties would not bid at the sale.

In a Salem hotel, in the presence of the New York attorneys and of Mr. Johnson, Mr. Ambler asked Metzger about the $1,000 and Metzger said he would not take it. Ambler replied that he could not get it, and there were some words, witness saying that Metzger did not play fair. Ambler told Johnson he could cut out the $1,000, which was to be paid to Metzger, adding that he could not stop the $15,000 deal, but could stop the $1,000 loan of the city money.

Ambler was cross-examined by Attorney Speaker, the battle between the legal gentlemen waxing hot and furious and diverting the spectators. The only point brought out was that Ambler said he took Metzger to New York so that he might give the young man some prominence in his coming race for the prosecuting attorneyship of this county.

The Salem city ordinance which provides for $500 a year for the solicitor, "with further sums for necessary expenses and supplies," was read by Attorney Ramsey and placed in evidence. Owing to the absence of an important witness for the prosecution court adjourned for the day at 5 o'clock.

Lisbon, March 29.—The Salem vs Metzger case was resumed this morning. B. S. Ambler was recalled, and told of talking with Metzger about trips to various places. The railroad was in good condition when Metzger took office.

Attorney S. W. Ramsey was the next witness. He was counsel in the case of Cook vs. Salem and recalled several items paid Metzger for expenses to Lisbon. On the dates of some of Metzger's bills, the Cook case had not been heard in Lisbon. He said a petition in error had been filed and that the expenses of the stenographer should not exceed 25 cents for writing it. His testimony showed that the Cook case was settled in Salem December 3. On that date the case of Polly A. Sanor vs. L. P. Metzger et al was heard at Lisbon and Metzger put in a bill of that date reading "Cook case, $3.50." Ramsey said the Cook case was not up that day. Cross-examination was brief. Ramsey said Metzger had told him at noon December 3 that the Cook case had been settled.

Here the prosecution rested, with the privilege of examining Attorney J. E. Scott on the Cook case later. Scott is sick, but will be heard.

The defense opened at 9:20. Three witnesses were sworn. Miss Mollie Camp, F. Mullens and Albert Hayes, of Salem. A. W. Taylor for the defense, had been previously sworn.

L. P. Metzger took the stand, and his witnesses, except Taylor and Mullens, were excluded from the room. Congressman Taylor conducted the examination.

Mr. Metzger told about the Cook case, saying it was between two courts about May 3, 1900. Here the witness, probably recalling the death of his wife about that time, was overcome with emotion and left the stand for a short time. Resuming he said he actually paid a stenographer $1.25 for preparing the Cook case petition. He explained his journeys to Cleveland, Lisbon and New York. Once he went to Cleveland on the bond sale matter and twice to look up Lisbon railroad records. He had employed Attorney Speaker at his own expense while on the Cook case, remanded to common pleas. The case was settled satisfactorily to Salem council. His two trips to New York were necessary, and on the second one he got the New York decree changed and made satisfactory to Salem council. In addition he secured a contract releasing the city from any liability for shortage resulting from the sale.

Ambler never paid all his expenses to New York. He had sent Metzger a ticket, and witness expected to pay for it, and also his share of the expenses on the New York trip. He and Ambler had a sort of running account. He owed Ambler for election expenses and other small items and Ambler owed him.

He denied that he had conspired to turn the railroad over to a non-competing line. He had told W. D. Johnson, of Pittsburg, who talked of purchasing, that he had no information for him if he represented the Pennsylvania company. He gave Johnson some information and received a small fee from him.

About the $1,000, Attorney Jennings, for the trust company in New York, had told him it was proper and customary to get a fee in such matters, and that that amount would be about right. He was not familiar with this custom, and said if the money did not come from the city he would take it. He understood the court made such provisions. There was absolutely no arrangement to get this money.

Metzger was on the stand over two hours and was cross-examined by Prosecuting Attorney Brookes.

Mr. Brookes questioned the witness closely on every item, going over the ground again and again. Metzger made some admissions not in the first testimony, but stood the test well. He admitted that the New Yorkers might get as much as $20,000 out of it. He did not know whether he would take the $1,000 if he could get it while holding a city office. He was certain his New York ticket was not a complimentary one; did not know whether council knew he was going to New York.

At 1:30 the cross-examination of Metzger was resumed vigorously, and ceased to allow minor witnesses who had to catch a train to be heard.

A. W. Taylor, called for the defense, was on the stand as this report closed. His testimony was largely routine. The taking of testimony will probably continue all day.

At the close of the service last night more than a score of people testified by standing up that they were not satisfied with the life they were living.

After reading the touching story of Mary and Martha and Lazarus, Mr. Kaylor took for his theme "Jesus, the Wonderful Savior," based on Isaiah 9:6, and for 30 minutes held the large audience in breathless attention.

After an appeal to men and women to accept this wonderful Savior as theirs, the meeting was adjourned to the lecture room of the church, where a very impressive and helpful meeting was held. Meetings at the church will continue every afternoon and evening at 2:30 and 8 o'clock. Everybody is invited.

VERY DOUBTFUL ABOUT THE MEN GETTING THEIR MONEY.

The Judges of the Pulling Match Have Both Left the City.

It is very doubtful, from present indications, if either Thomas McLaughlin or John Nisson will get the money wagered on the pulling qualities of their horses. According to the stakeholder's explanation there had been a rivalry between the contractors on this point and on Wednesday evening it was arranged that the match should take place at the Golding flint mill. Two disinterested parties, W. H. Leggett, of Hopedale and a man named Grosscross, from New Brighton, were selected as judges. Lyman Rinehart was requested to act as stakeholder and the $100, placed in his hands.

McLaughlin's horse weighed 1,330 pounds and the other animal but 970. It was agreed that the difference in weight should be made up in the load. McLaughlin's horse was to move a load 330 pounds heavier than the Nisson animal.

The latter was allowed to pull first and moved a heavily laden wagon of stone. The horse was hitched to the end of the tongue, which placed it at a disadvantage.

The same load was allowed to remain on the wagon and it was taken to the stone pile to have 330 pounds added. Through some miscalculation Richard Manor, who had charge of the scale, allowed 1,675 pounds to be placed on the load instead of 330.

There was no decision, according to Rinehart, and that is his reason for keeping the stakes. A number of the parties who witnessed the contest assert that there was a decision, but as both judges have left the city it is impossible to ascertain just what their decision was.

A BOLD THIEF.

Well Dressed Colored Man Robbed a Lady on a Street Car.

One of the boldest thefts reported in a long time occurred on an east bound car street car which arrived in this city at 7:15 last evening.

The car was in charge of Conductor John Whan, and had a number of passengers aboard. Among them was a well dressed colored man who occupied a seat immediately behind Miss Belle Whitt, of this city.

The fellow left the car at Franklin and Sixth and with him went a fine pair of kid gloves belonging to Miss Whitt. Her attention was called to the matter by another lady and an attempt made to overtake the thief. Miss Whitt would not permit the street car men to notify the police, and it is likely nothing will come of the matter.

VERY DOUBTFUL ABOUT THE MEN GETTING THEIR MONEY.

The Judges of the Pulling Match
Have Both Left the City.

It is very doubtful, from present indications, if either Thomas McLaughlin or John Nisson will get the money wagered on the pulling qualities of their horses. According to the stakeholder's explanation there had been a rivalry between the contractors on this point and on Wednesday evening it was arranged that the match should take place at the Golding flint mill.

Two disinterested parties, W. H. Leggett of Hopedale and a man named Grosscross, from New Brighton, were selected as judges. Lyman Rinehart was requested to act as stakeholder and the $100. placed in his hands.

McLaughlin's horse weighed 1,330 pounds and the other animal but 970. It was agreed that the difference in weight should be made up in the lead. McLaughlin's horse was to move a load 330 pounds heavier than the Nisson animal.

The latter was allowed to pull first and moved a heavily laden wagon of stone. The horse was hitched to the end of the tongue, which placed it at a disadvantage.

The same load was allowed to remain on the wagon and it was taken to the stone pile to have 330 pounds added. Through some miscalculation Richard Manor, who had charge of the scale, allowed 1,675 pounds to be placed on the load instead of 330.

There was no decision, according to Rinehart, and that is his reason for keeping the stakes. A number of the parties who witnessed the contest assert that there was a decision, but as both judges have left the city it is impossible to ascertain just what their decision was.

A BOLD THIEF.

Well Dressed Colored Man Robbed a Lady on a Street Car.

One of the boldest thefts reported in a long time occurred on an east bound car street car which arrived in this city at 7:15 last evening.

The car was in charge of Conductor John Whitt, and had a number of passengers aboard. Among them was a well dressed colored man who occupied a seat immediately behind Miss Whitt, of this city.

The fellow left the car at Franklin and Sixth and with him went a fine pair of kid gloves belonging to Miss Whitt. Her attention was called to the matter by another lady and an attempt made to overtake the thief. Miss Whitt would not permit the street car men to notify the police, and it is likely nothing will come of the matter.

To the Voters of the Fourth Ward.

The nomination for council in the Fourth ward came to Thomas F. Starkey unsolicited on his part. Mr. Starkey was born and lived in the Fourth ward. Most all his life, by his close economy, good business judgment and financial management, he has accumulated considerable valuable property located in the Fourth ward. Consequently the voters will make no mistake in sending Mr. Starkey to council to look after their interests. He stands for good city government, low taxation and the enforcement of law, which all good citizens demand.

HANDSOME GIRL FOUND DYING, OPEN BIBLE LYING BY HER BED

Margaret Gracie Mayer, Formerly of This City, Committed Suicide
In Her Room at Washington.

PRETTY AND WELL EDUCATED, BUT WAYWARD

She Was Said to Have Been Addicted to the Morphine Habit and Ended Her Life by Taking That Drug—Her Bible Was Turned Down at a Marked Passage Which Reads “The Goodness of God
Calleth to Repentance.”

A telegram from Washington, D. C., gives particulars of the death in that city of Margaret Mayer, which was briefly reported in these columns yesterday. The name is Mayer, not Maher, and her father, although a property owner, was not very wealthy. The Washington dispatch says:

“Margaret Gracie Maher, aged 22, whose home is said to be in East Liverpool, where her father, who is now dead, was once a large stockholder in the leading pottery works, committed suicide yesterday at a disreputable house, 1307 C street, northwest, by taking morphine. Jennie Wright, a servant in the house, heard groans in the girl's room about 3:30 p. m. The door was forced and the girl was found in bed unconscious. The police were notified and she was hurried to the Emergency hospital, where she died. When Patrolman Catts was searching her room later on he found an open New Testament on a chair near the girl's bed. A leaf was turned down and a passage in Romans xi. was marked, the following line being heavily underscored: ‘The goodness of God calleth to repentance.’ On the flypage of the book was the following: ‘To dear Margaret Gracie from Margaret Duncan, 1899.’ This was written in ink.

The police learned that the girl, who went under the name of Helen Vernon, was the daughter of a wealthy father who died several years ago in East Liverpool, O. It was said that her mother died many years ago, and that her father married again, but that in his will he provided amply for the support of the dead girl and a son. The dead girl had given evidence of being educated. She had in her room many works, the best authors and also a large number of magazines. She had a wealth of blonde hair and was considered handsome.

“Before coming here during inauguration week it is said the girl was in Indianapolis. The police have communicated with the Indianapolis authorities and also with her brother.” Miss Mayer was until a short time ago a resident of Pittsburgh, having lived at 235 Second avenue. Before leaving here she was said to be a user of morphine. Her father, Wm. J. Mayer, was a well known potter and worked in this city for many years. He has been dead for several years. Her stepmother still lives in this city, but has known nothing of Margaret for years. Even when young the girl was wayward and seven years ago she ran away. Friends found her in Cleveland and she was put in the Home of the Good Shepherd. She ran away and came to East Liverpool. She soon went to Pittsburgh, and after she left there all trace of her was lost until the news of her suicide came. She attended the high school and was a bright girl.

Her brother, John Mayer, formerly a printer in this city, is reported to be living in Cleveland.

NOT CHANGED

Is Condition at Goodwin's—Likely to Be Some Time Before It Is Settled.

The strike situation at the Goodwin pottery is unchanged, except that the warehouse women are more determined than ever to carry their point. They threaten to tie up every pottery in the city unless the firm comes to terms.

The refusal of the women to place the matter in the hands of the standing committee practically ends any negotiations the Brotherhood might have begun. President Hughes interested himself for a time, and in so doing became involved in a series of misunderstandings that has required a greater portion of toady in straightening out. It is likely the Brotherhood will allow the dispute to take its course and will take no further part therein unless asked to do so.

HIGHEST BID $3,600

No Sale at the Auction of the Old
Walters Property.

The old Walters property on Third street, which was offered at public auction at 2 o'clock this afternoon, was not sold. The highest bid was $3,600.

J. W. Riley acting as trustee for the heirs, withdrew the property, stating that it would not be sold for the amount bid. There was considerable discussion as to whether it could be legally withdrawn when it was advertised to be sold at public auction.

HOSPITAL DAY PROSPECTS GOOD

Three Societies In the City Have Made Good Propositions to the Association.

TREASURER TO COLLECT MONEY

At the Citizens' National Bank—Three Wards in the New Institution Already Taken—A Very Enthusiastic Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon.

Tomorrow is Hospital donation day. It has been understood from the beginning that the proprietors of the various mercantile establishments would receive contributions from their clerks and other employees.

At the meeting yesterday a communication was received from the Girls' Friendly society of St. Stephen's church offering to take and maintain a ward in the new institution as soon as it was completed. The ward will contain six cots and all the necessary equipment. Like offers were received from a society composed of Jewish ladies and the King's Daughters, of the Methodist Protestant church. All the propositions were accepted with the thanks of the association.

Through the courtesy of those in charge of the Potters' National bank, the treasurer of the association will be permitted to receive reports from the collectors at that institution. She may be seen at the bank on Saturday evening from 6 to 10 o'clock, and on Monday the entire day.

The impression seems to have been circulated that the collectors were to receive 10 per cent for collecting the money tomorrow night. The ladies wish to deny this, as those engaged in the work are doing it through the interest they have in the cause.

The Hospital association held a meeting in the Grand Army hall yesterday afternoon, and arranged the following list of those authorized to receive contributions tomorrow, in the various establishments:

Vodrey's pottery; Will Vodrey; Brunt's pottery, Ed Geis; East Liverpool pottery, R. G. Meakis; Thompson's pottery, Will Weaver; Laughlin No. 2, W. E. ## DECEPTIVE DROPS.

BUSHELS OF CANDY CONTAINING BRANDY SOLD HERE.

School Children Consume It And Supt.
Rayman Proposes to Stop the Traffic.

It is more than probable that a certain out-of-town wholesale confectionery firm which has supplied a certain brand of sweetmeats to local dealers will get into serious trouble unless the sale of the stuff is discontinued.

Within the past few days several bushels of a certain candy which very much resembles a chocolate drop have been consumed by the school children of East Liverpool and the demand is constantly growing.

The drop is chocolate coated, but the coating is very thin, and on the inside is deposited a quantity of very good brandy.

They are known as the “whisky drop,” and have been bought in large quantities.

A News Review reporter purchased a few this morning, and, upon presenting them to Superintendent Rayman at his office, learned that the gentleman had already commenced an investigation of the matter. He proposes to ask the local dealers to discontinue their sale, and if the request is disregarded legal steps will be taken.

Samples were inspected by a number of first-class authorities, and all agree that the drops contain whisky or brandy.

Upon inquiry at the office of a prominent attorney it was stated that, while there was no law which had a direct bearing upon the subject, there was no doubt in his mind that the manufacturers could be proceeded against under the government license regulations. If the stuff contained whisky the people who made it were certainly selling it, and not only this but selling it without a license.

JURY DISAGREED

No Verdict in the Case of A. T. Dennis, Insurance Agent—Court Notes.

Lisbon, March 29.—(Special)—In the case of Ohio versus A. T. Dennis, the Canton insurance agent, at 10 o'clock last evening the jury disagreed. After eight hours the jury stood seven for acquittal and five for conviction.

A suit filed in North Georgetown by Augustus Knam against O. R. Burson to recover $57 on a note was appealed to common pleas court today. The lower court gave the plaintiff judgment for $97.46.

The case of William Bradbury against William Steese was settled in court after a jury had been sworn. The action was brought by Bradbury to get possession of the Commercial hotel furniture in Lisbon. Bradbury paid all costs and allowed Steese $150. Bradbury got the furniture.

TESTIMONY FOR THE PROSECUTION

The Hearing In the Metzger Case
Lead to a Spicy Tilt of Lawyers.

B. S. AMBLER TOLD HIS STORY

Sharply Cross-Examined By Attorney
Speaker—Much Talk of a $1,000
Fee Which the Salem Solicitor Is Alleged to Have Expected to Get.

From a Staff Correspondent.
Lisbon, March 29.—(Special)—Charged with malfeasance and misfeasance in public office, Lewis P. Metzger, city solicitor of Salem, was given a hearing before Probate Judge Boone in the common pleas court room yesterday. The case was originally set for 9 o'clock, but owing to a press of business, Judge Boone did not reach it until 2 p. m.

The complaint was first read. It was sworn to by Attorney S. W. Ramsey, of Salem, and approved by seven members of the council of that city. The document was filed in probate court March 13. Its substance has already been published in these columns. It charges Metzger with receiving money from the city to which he was not entitled. During the year he has been in office it charges that he has worked against the city's interest in the settlement of the Salem railroad case, which has just been disposed of.

Attorney S. W. Ramsey and Prosecuting Attorney J. H. Brookes represented the plaintiff and C. S. Speaker and Congressman R. W. Tayler, of this city, the defendant.

Mr. Ramsey briefly reviewed the case for Salem and was followed by Congressman Tayler for Metzger, who eulogized his client, told of the valuable services rendered the city by the solicitor. He held that Metzger was entitled to the highest praise for the protection of Salem's interests.

Mr. Ramsey read a bill of admissions which included traveling expenses of Metzger in trips to New York, Cleveland and Lisbon. The hearing then proceeded. Eleven witnesses were sworn.

A. W. Taylor, ex-solicitor of Salem, was the first witness and was examined briefly as to the duties of the solicitor.

James E. McNeelan, a Salem councilman, was called. Attorney Speaker asked for a separation of witnesses. The matter was argued and the request granted. McNeelan is a member of the claims committee. His testimony related mainly to talks with Metzger about his expenses on trips to New York and Cleveland. McNeelan referred to the report that Metzger was to have $1,000 for settling the railroad case. Metzger admitted that such a thing had been talked of, but insisted that it was proper to take the money if it did not come from the city. He also admitted to McNeelan that he had received a small fee from Pittsburgh parties, but did not say how much nor for what. McNeelan said Metzger gave the impression that B. S. Ambler paid his expenses to New York, but that he (Metzger) intended to pay this back when he learned what the expenses came to.

James M. Sears, also a councilman, testified that the $10.35 bill was sent back to Metzger to be itemized before it was paid. Metzger told him he had charged no more than he had a right to; also that he had received a small fee from a Pittsburgh gentleman for information furnished about Salem railroad affairs.

Charles E. Sweeney, president of Salem council, stated that he met Metzger March 7 at an informal meeting of Salem council, which had been called to investigate some of the solicitor's acts. Witness called his attention to a city ordinance fixing the solicitor's compensation. Metzger said he had not read it before, and then read it aloud. Metzger was then questioned about the $1,000 and said he did not know why the New York at

EAST END.

PREHISTORIC MOUND.

ONE IN THE EAST END WILL SOON BE LEVELED.

Many People Will Watch the Work Expecting to Find Valuable Relics.

At a meeting of the members of the Supplee Land company, which will be held soon, a part of the land purchased by this company will be laid off in lots. The part to be platted includes the peculiar elevation commonly known as "the Thompson mound," which has been the object of much speculation for many years. A large majority of the residents believe that this mound was built by that pre-historic race known as the mound builders whose peculiar monuments are numerous in the valleys of the Ohio and Mississippi. The mound at Groves' creek, just below Wheeling, and from which Moundsville was named, contained some peculiar and valuable relics. Among these were very large skeletons, coffins and peculiar hieroglyphic plates. This elevation was considerably larger than the Thompson mound.

Mr. Thompson has received many propositions in years past from people anxious to open this mound. He has always refused to permit the work to be done, believing the elevation to be a natural one. The mound stands almost in the middle of the bottom. It covers perhaps an acre of ground and is very symmetrical in shape.

As soon as the earth is platted the mound will be cut down to a level with the ground surrounding it. The work when begun will be watched with a great deal of interest by a large number of people.

SALT ACTED MAGICALLY.

COLUMBIANA MAN REVIVED AFTER APPARENTLY DYING.

Caused to Breathe February 7, But Regained Consciousness and Lived Weeks.

Columbian, March 29.—Aquilla Stroud, a well known and highly esteemed resident of Columbian, died a few days ago after a long and painful illness of Bright's disease, which had confined him to the house for several months. Although it was fully realized that recovery was impossible, his death came with startling suddenness. As his wife was washing and otherwise preparing him for his breakfast, his head dropped and without a word or apparently a gasp, he was dead. He is survived by a widow and two children.

A peculiar circumstance was connected with the late illness of Mr. Stroud. On February 7 he apparently died; he ceased to breathe, his pulse became indistinguishable and there was every indication that life was extinct. The attending physician, Dr. Frisbie, had been a close student of all the literature pertaining to the alleged discovery that salt in certain solution would revive persons who had apparently ceased to live, and, realizing that an experiment could not possibly do any harm and might prove effective, he administered to the patient a hypodermic injection of the saline solution.

The effect was almost magical. The lungs and heart resumed their functions, the patient regained consciousness, and was soon able to converse with those about him. The improvement in his condition was well maintained for some time, but the remedy could not overcome the ravages of the malady that had seized upon him as its victim, and death finally resulted.

We have all the new swell styles in boys' and children's suits for spring. See our window display this week.

HOSPITAL DONATION DAY.
Tomorrow is hospital donation day. Everyone should do something for this fund. No citizen is expected to contribute or offer to contribute more than he can afford. But everyone is expected to do what he can without injustice to himself or his family. A little self-sacrifice for the noble cause will hurt no one. Deny yourself the pleasure a few dollars will purchase and place the money where it will benefit the sick and the suffering. You will not miss the cash, and your own and other people's children may live to bless your generosity. The city is rich and prosperous; men and women who are able to work can all earn good wages; no one need be idle here.

A neat sum for the upbuilding of the institution of which the city stands in such great need can be realized if every person in the city, whether his earning capacity be great or small, will devote at least one day's earnings to swelling the fund which is to be raised. The city has determined to have a hospital. Let every good citizen do his part toward its establishment, and the earlier the work can be completed the better for the public.

AGUINALDO'S CAPTURE.

Aguinaldo, the elusive, has been captured by Funston, the strenuous Nobody, except Edward Atkinson, John J. Lentz, William J. Bryan and others of his allies, is likely to receive the tidings otherwise than joyously. The Little Americans will be plunged into a period of mourning, and resolutions further commanding the conduct of the barbarous rebel who planned wholesale massacres of American soldiers, liberal sprinkling with boiling oil and other oriental pleasantries, may now be expected from his late confederates on this side of the water.

Any other government than that of the United States would doubtless hang Aguinaldo. But patient Uncle Sam will spare his worthless life. The Filipino ex-president has been the worst possible foe to the people he professed to befriend. He is a villain with just enough education to be more dangerous than a savage who knows nothing of civilized mankind. His capture saves his deluded followers from a worse fate, and virtually terminates the war against this government. As we have said, there will be no mourning save in the camp of his allies, who are chiefly in the Democratic party. His praises have been loudly sounded by the Ohio Democracy, but now that he is hors du combat and no longer a campaign issue even that body will desert him. He has long been as good as dead, and his capture by the American forces puts a final quietus upon his insurrectionary proclamations and his ridiculous pretensions. The real friends of the Filipinos have abundant reason for rejoicing.

The question what to do with Aguinaldo is becoming serious. Why not turn him over to the care of his most fervent admirers in this country and exact a pledge to keep him out of mischief? That would give them an opportunity for the more intimate acquaintance which they seem to hanker after, and perhaps would be quite as much punishment for him as he deserves.

The spasm of bigotry and blind partisanship that swept over Kentucky less than a year ago has so far subsided that the supreme court has granted a new trial to Caleb Powers and James Howard.

East Liverpool may not have more broken sidewalks to the square mile than any other town in America, but there's not many cities outside the earthquake belt that can match her in that respect.

If Funston overlooked Aguinaldo's typewriter when he took the rest of his paraphernalia he should promptly go back after it, no matter if he has to swim twice as far as on any previous expedition.

The sultan of Morocco is to be given time to settle. If time were money with him he would have paid his debts to Uncle Sam in full with interest twice over before this.

Come back, Funston, and grand marches shall be played in your honor.

TESTIMONY.

Attorneys thought he ought to have it unless they held that he had benefited the Salem railroad fund in a settlement effected of what is known as the Devine damage suit against the road.

Albert H. Kennedy, city treasurer, talked with Metzger about the delivery of some bonds in Cleveland about the time the solicitor incurred his $19.35 expense bill. Metzger told him that he was going to take a little trip for his health, to be gone a week.

Wm. H. Dunn, mine superintendent for the Salem Coal company, of which B. S. Ambler is president, next testified. He said he was in Ambler's office about February 1. Metzger and Miss Doyle, a stenographer, were also present. Ambler said: "Metzger, you are in a lot of trouble. You have charged the city with expenses to New York, which had already been paid." Metzger replied somewhat angrily: "Yes, you told my worst enemy about it. You told J. M. Sears." Ambler said Sears had asked him about it and he had told the truth. Metzger wanted to pay Ambler the amount of the expense to New York. Ambler said: "You owe me nothing for such a trip." This Metzger denied vigorously and insisted he owed Ambler some money in addition to money spent in his election, but said he would pay it back.

Ambler asked Metzger about the $1,000. Metzger said he would take it if offered. Ambler said: "You can't have it." Metzger replied that he had talked the matter over with Judge W. W. Hole, who thought it would be all right for him to take the money. Metzger again stated that he owed Ambler, but could not pay, as he had no money. Witness said Metzger told Ambler that he had received no fees from Pittsburg parties.

Next morning Dunn talked with Metzger alone, and the solicitor asked him what he thought of last night's conversation. Witness replied that he wished he had not been there, but that he thought Ambler had the best of it. Metzger said he would come out all right, and that Ambler must be worried about that $1,000. Metzger repeated that he would take the money if he could get it. Mr. Ambler came along and Dunn heard Metzger tell him that he need not fear the Pittsburg party. On cross-examination Dunn said he was employed by Ambler.

Councilman Charles A. Cavanaugh gave the same testimony, in substance, as that given by the preceding councilmen.

B. S. Ambler, attorney and receiver of the Salem railroad, was the last and most interesting witness of the day. He helped build the railroad and has been one of its officers ever since. He gave a detailed history of the road and of the case before the court. It was he who wanted Metzger to go to New York to satisfy himself that the attorneys there negotiating settlement, were conducting everything as they should. These lawyers had invited him and Metzger, and they went together, put up at the Fifth avenue, met the lawyers, dined at the Union League club and transacted some business. The attorneys settled their hotel bill. Metzger left before Ambler did, and later made a second trip to New York. Some papers were changed slightly as a result. Witness later saw Metzger in his office and the latter said Mr. Johnson, of Pittsburg, and his associates were going to buy the Salem railroad and that they were all right. Ambler said he told Metzger that he ought to have told this, and the solicitor said he had tried to telephone Ambler, but could not reach him. Metzger told him, among other things, that he did not think there would be much money left after the New York attorneys for the road got $20,000. Sometime in February the witness and Metzger met in the office of Ambler, Mr. Dunn and Miss Doyle being present, and what occurred was substantially what Dunn told on the stand. The witness told of a journey from Columbus with Councilman Sears and of a conversation which led up to the present case.

Witness said Metzger told him he had not been paid and Ambler retorted that Metzger was to get $1,000 to consent to give away $15,000. Metzger said the attorneys had suggested it and that Judge Hole, who had been told the whole story, approved. Witness told him Judge Hole did not know all or he never would have consented. The witness had two hours' talk with Metzger and the next morning met him on the street, when

Metzger told him the Pittsburg parties would not bid at the sale.

In a Salem hotel, in the presence of the New York attorneys and of Mr. Johnson, Mr. Ambler asked Metzger about the $1,000 and Metzger said he would not take it. Ambler replied that he could not get it, and there were some words, witness saying that Metzger did not play fair. Ambler told Johnson he could cut out the $1,000, which was to be paid to Metzger, adding that he could not stop the $15,000 deal, but could stop the $1,000 loot of the city money.

Ambler was cross-examined by Attorney Speaker, the battle between the legal gentlemen waxing hot and furious and diverting the spectators. The only point brought out was that Ambler said he took Metzger to New York so that he might give the young man some prominence in his coming race for the prosecuting attorneyship of this county.

The Salem city ordinance which provides for $500 a year for the solicitor, "with further sums for necessary expenses and supplies," was read by Attorney Ramsey and placed in evidence. Owing to the absence of an important witness for the prosecution court adjourned for the day at 5 o'clock.

METZGER'S STORY*HE EXPLAINS HIS EXPENSE BILLS AND OTHER MATTERS.*Denies Conniving And Shows the Basis for the $1,000 Story.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Lisbon, March 29.—The Salem vs Metzger case was resumed this morning. B. S. Ambler was recalled, and told of talking with Metzger about trips to various places. The railroad was in good condition when Metzger took office.

Attorney S. W. Ramsey was the next witness. He was counsel in the case of Cook vs. Salem and recalled several items paid Metzger for expenses to Lisbon. On the dates of some of Metzger's bills, the Cook case had not been heard in Lisbon. He said a petition in error had been filed and that the expenses of the stenographer should not exceed 25 cents for writing it. His testimony showed that the Cook case was settled in Salem December 3. On that date the case of Polly A. Sanor vs. L. P. Metzger et al was heard at Lisbon and Metzger put in a bill of that date reading "Cook case, $3.50." Ramsey said the Cook case was not up that day. Cross-examination was brief. Ramsey said Metzger had told him at noon December 3 that the Cook case had been settled.

Here the prosecution rested, with the privilege of examining Attorney J. E. Scott on the Cook case later. Scott is sick, but will be heard.

The defense opened at 9:20. Three witnesses were sworn, Miss Mollie Camp, F. Mullens and Albert Hayes, of Salem. A. W. Taylor for the defense, had been previously sworn.

L. P. Metzger took the stand, and his witnesses, except Taylor and Mullens, were excluded from the room. Congressman Taylor conducted the examination.

Mr. Metzger told about the Cook case, saying it was between two courts about May 3, 1900. Here the witness, probably recalling the death of his wife about that time, was overcome with emotion and left the stand for a short time. Resuming he said he actually paid a stenographer $1.25 for preparing the Cook case petition. He explained his journeys to Cleveland, Lisbon and New York. Once he went to Cleveland on the bond sale matter and twice to look up Lisbon railroad records. He had employed Attorney Speaker at his own expense while on the Cook case, remanded to common pleas. The case was settled satisfactorily to Salem council. His two trips to New York were necessary, and on the second one he got the New York decree changed and made satisfactory to Salem council. In addition he secured a contract releasing the city from any liability for shortage resulting from the sale.

Ambler never paid all his expenses to New York. He had sent Metzger a ticket, and witness expected to pay for it, and also his share of the expenses on the New York trip. He and Ambler had a sort of running account. He owed Ambler for election expenses and other small items and Ambler owed him.

He denied that he had conspired to turn the railroad over to a non-competing line. He had told W. D. Johnson, of Pittsburg, who talked of purchasing, that he had no information for him if he represented the Pennsylvania company. He gave Johnson some information and received a small fee from him.

About the $1,000, Attorney Jennings, for the trust company in New York, had told him it was proper and customary to get a fee in such matters, and that that amount would be about right. He was not familiar with this custom, and said if the money did not come from the city he would take it. He understood the court made such provisions. There was absolutely no arrangement to get this money.

Metzger was on the stand over two hours and was cross-examined by Prosecuting Attorney Brookes.

Mr. Brookes questioned the witness closely on every item, going over the ground again and again. Metzger made some admissions not in the first testimony, but stood the test well. He admitted that the New Yorkers might get as much as $20,000 out of it. He did not know whether he would take the $1,000 if he could get it while holding a city office. He was certain his New York ticket was not a complimentary one; did not know whether council knew he was going to New York.

At 1:30 the cross-examination of Metzger was resumed vigorously, and ceased to allow minor witnesses who had to catch a train to be heard.

A. W. Taylor, called for the defense, was on the stand as this report closed. His testimony was largely routine. The taking of testimony will probably continue all day.

MORE THAN A SCORE

Express Desire to Lead Better Lives As a Result of the Kaylor Meetings.

The meetings at the United Presbyterian church under the direction of the lawyer evangelist, A. H. Kaylor, are daily growing in numbers and interest. At the close of the service last night more than a score of people testified by standing up that they were not satisfied with the life they were living.

After reading the touching story of Mary and Martha Lazarus, Mr. Kaylor took for his theme "Jesus, the Wonderful Savior," based on Isaiah 9:6, and for 30 minutes held the large audience in breathless attention.

After an appeal to men and women to accept this wonderful Savior as theirs, the meeting was adjourned to the lecture room of the church, where a very impressive and helpful meeting was held. Meetings at the church will continue every afternoon and evening at 2:30 and 8 o'clock. Every body is invited.

VERY DOUBTFUL ABOUT THE MEN GETTING THEIR MONEY.

The Judges of the Pulling Match Have Both Left the City.

It is very doubtful, from present indications, if either Thomas McLaughlin or John Nisson will get the money wagered on the pulling qualities of their horses. According to the stakeholder's explanation there had been a rivalry between the contractors on this point and on Wednesday evening it was arranged that the match should take place at the Golding flint mill. Two disinterested parties, W. H. Leggett, of Hopetown and a man named Grosscross, from New Brighton, were selected as judges. Lyman Rinehart was requested to act as stakeholder and the $100 placed in his hands.

McLaughlin's horse weighed 1,330 pounds and the other animal but 970. It was agreed that the difference in weight should be made up in the load. McLaughlin's horse was to move a load 330 pounds heavier than the Nisson animal.

The latter was allowed to pull first and moved a heavily laden wagon of stone. The horse was hitched to the end of the tongue, which placed it at a disadvantage.

The same load was allowed to remain on the wagon and it was taken to the stone pile to have 330 pounds added. Through some miscalculation Richard Manor, who had charge of the scale, allowed 1,675 pounds to be placed on the load instead of 330.

There was no decision, according to Rinehart, and that is his reason for keeping the stakes. A number of the parties who witnessed the contest assert that there was a decision, but as both judges have left the city it is impossible to ascertain just what their decision was.

A BOLD THIEF.

Well Dressed Colored Man Robbed a Lady on a Street Car.

One of the boldest thefts reported in a long time occurred on an east bound car street car which arrived in this city at 7:15 last evening.

The car was in charge of Conductor John Whan, and had a number of passengers aboard. Among them was a well dressed colored man who occupied a seat immediately behind Miss Belle Whitt, of this city.

The fellow left the car at Franklin and Sixth and with him went a fine pair of kid gloves belonging to Miss Whitt. Her attention was called to the matter by another lady and an attempt made to overtake the thief. Miss Whitt would not permit the street car men to notify the police, and it is likely nothing will come of the matter.

To the Voters of the Fourth Ward. The nomination for council in the Fourth ward came to Thomas F. Starkey unsolicited on his part. Mr. Starkey was born and lived in the Fourth ward. Most all his life, by his close economy, good business judgment and financial management, he has accumulated considerable valuable property located in the Fourth ward. Consequently the voters will make no mistake in sending Mr. Starkey to council to look after their interests. He stands for good city government, low taxation and the enforcement of law, which all good citizens demand.
